The Morning Post records a movement to prevent the spinners from selling at a loss. Washington, Yesterday. The United States gold price has been raised due to the Administration's encouragement over the increase in commodity prices just prior to Thanksgiving Day. Authorities here are apparently ignoring the further sweeping reductions in the Bank of France's gold reserve, which are attributed to America's gold buying programme.

Replying to the criticism levelled at the Roosevelt Gold policy by Mr. Al Smith, former Governor of New York, Mr. Hopkins yesterday announced that the Civil Works Administration had employed 1,183,267 jobless in four States up to November 25. — United Press, per S. C. Gold Bar Co.

SPECIAL TO SUNDAY HERALD. (By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received December 2, 10.11 a.m.)

New York, Yesterday. Messrs. Dunn and Bradstreet report that the general trade tempo in the United States is slower, with an element of cautiousness tempering operations.

This, however, is partially compensated by stronger confidence in the more stable upswing. The agricultural and industrial sections submitted the best reports.

The National City Bank of New York's monthly survey reports that car-loadings, electric power consumption, steel operations and coal production, in the United States, all held ground or advanced during November, which is considered as heartening after four months of steady recession.

A more extensive upturn, however, is not expected until after the New Year. — United Press, per S. C. Gold Bar Co.

SWANSON'S REPORT

RECOMMENDS REPLACEMENT PROGRAMME

Navy Up To Treaty Limits.

"WEAKNESS INVITES AGGRESSIVE WAR"

Washington, Yesterday. An emphatic demand for a stronger United States Navy is made by the Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Claude A. Swanson in his annual report.

He declares that the time has come when the United States can no longer afford to lead in Disarmament. "Other Powers have not followed our example with the result that the United States now finds its relative naval strength seriously impaired," he states.

"Our weakened position does not serve the cause of peace, but jeopardizes it, because balanced armament fortifies diplomacy and is an important element for preserving peace and justice, whereas undue weakness invites aggressive war, breeding violation of ones rights, he continues.

"I believe one of the strongest guarantees of peace and justice is an adequate American Navy, a Treaty Navy Second to none."

Mr. Swanson recommends an orderly annual naval building replacement programme which will shortly give the country a Navy up to Treaty limits.

"Even taking into consideration the present building programme the United States would have to construct 101 additional ships in order to reach full Treaty strength by the end of 1936 when the London and Washington Treaties expire.

"As the result of sporadic and costly building programmes which have been carried out so far, all except four of the Navy's destroyers will be over age at the end of this year," he adds. — Reuter.

Chapter XII. — IN THE PASSAGES.

(By GERALD BURRARD.)

THE passage was becoming lower and all three fugitives had to stoop. Geoffrey felt some doors as they hurried along, and then he realised that they were in the very passage along which he had been first conducted to the open courtyard before the four Tibetans were impaled. He was quite certain of it, and knew that they would only be caught like rats in a trap, for there was no hope of escape from the courtyard. Better an unknown door than a known impossibility. He felt the next door they passed, but it was fastened. The next one gave to his shove, and he swung round through it, dragging his companions with him. Then he swung the door to and heaved his whole weight against it.

"Quick! The light! See if these are bolts."

Phyllis flashed the light on and Mr. Merridew shot home a strong bolt as the Tibetans hurried themselves against the door with shouts of disappointment and rage.

"There are two more bolts. Quick! Shove them in. We want all the hold we can get."

Bang! The shot crashed out and the noise of the discharge seemed to fill the air for several seconds in the confined space.

"Back! Away from in front of the door!"

Geoffrey suited his action to the words and almost flung Phyllis behind him against the wall in which the door was. A fusillade of shots rang out, and the din of crackling bullets, splintering wood, and roar of explosions was almost deafening.

"Give me the light," Geoffrey switched it on once more and for the first time they realised the nature of the place which they had entered. It was a small cell with a low ceiling, and the air was rapidly filling with the acrid fumes from the discharged rifles. There was no window, and only one door, the door through which they had come and through which the guards were now firing.

Geoffrey had hesitated to enter the open courtyard because there they would have no chance of escape, but now he realised that the courtyard would have been a place of safety compared to this tiny cell. He had gambled on a chance, and lost.

"We must look facts in the face," he had to shout to make himself heard above the din — "and we are done. There is absolutely no hope. I fear that my bad judgment has brought us to..."

"Boy, boy!" — the missionary's distress was very plain — "don't say that. I have continually marvelled at your bravery, fortitude, quickness, and craft. If anyone is to blame it is myself. But I feel that we were not meant to escape, and it is not for us to grumble. We must meet our fates with what courage we can summon."

"There's only one thing to do. We must never fall alive into their hands. Oh! Phyllis, my love! I do not seem cruel that I should have to be the one to end your sweet life. But you'll forgive me, sweetheart? You know it's the kindest thing which I can do?"

"Yes, Geoff, darling. I understand perfectly. I will be brave. I won't make it any harder for you."

"God forgive me. God forgive me." Mr. Merridew's anguish was terrible. "It's an awful thing to take human life deliberately, and self-destruction is considered by many the greatest sin of all. I have slain. I think two men to-night, but it was in fair fight and self-defence. And besides, I was not fighting for myself alone, but for you. This, however, is different."

"But surely you wouldn't let Phyllis fall alive into their hands? You heard what those devils said this evening!"

"I know. I know. And I think you are right. Nevertheless, the sin is terrible. God forgive us. God forgive us."

"Good-bye, my darling Geoff. Kiss me first. I'll keep my eyes tight shut."

Geoffrey held her in his arms. He clasped her very tight. He could not trust himself to speak. He kissed her hair, her eyes, her lips. She clung to him, returning caresses for caresses. Then she firmly pushed him from her.

"Now, Geoff. Be brave." He stooped for his pistol, which he had placed on the ground before his farewell embrace.

Suddenly there was a rending crash and the door fell in. The bullets had torn the wood from the hinges, so that the guards had been able to force it in. Before Geoffrey knew what had happened men surged in and on him. Mechanically he fired his automatic as fast as he could pull the trigger, but with what effect he had no means of knowing. He kicked and fought, but it was of no avail, and he was soon overpowered by weight of numbers. Men sat upon his legs, his arms, his chest, his head. He choked for breath, but could not move. He felt his legs being bound, and then he was rolled over on his face just as shortly before he had himself rolled the "Tiger." His arms were bound behind his back and ropes passed round his body. Finally he lay trussed on the floor and incapable of movement.

Then he fainted.

CHAPTER XIII

SHER KHAN INTERVENES.

When Geoffrey recovered consciousness for the third time since his capture the room in which he found himself seemed vaguely familiar. He noted that the light was natural but that it was dim. He felt very tired and sleepy — altogether too tired to think. He made no attempt to collect his thoughts, but was content to drift along with the current of the immediate present. He closed his eyes again and slept.

He woke all of a sudden and this time was strangely alert. The room was now dark. He thought and remembered the diffused light of his previous waking. Then he realised that night had fallen once more; his third night in captivity. Heaven! it seemed like years. He had fainted just after the temple guards had overpowered him. Yes, it was all coming back now. He had been on the point of shooting Phyllis in order to save her from worse than death when the door had given and they had been overwhelmed. Yes, yes, that was it. And now their hopes were over. He tried to move, but he was bound hand and foot. For a moment he felt inclined to give in to utter despair, but then his inherent courage asserted itself. He would not give up hope. Twice before he had awakened to find himself bound, and twice he had escaped. He would do it again.

Without knowing it he had more than slept the clock round, and the rest gave him stimulation and hope.

Then he heard a familiar sound of a heavy panel sliding on bearings. A light flashed into the room and Phillip Hayde Thompson's voice broke the silence.

"Light the lamp and the fire. And bring food quickly. I am hungry." The words were Tibetan; he was obviously giving orders to a servant.

In another minute the lamp flooded the room with light, and the burning paper on the hearth began to crumple and smoke as it burst into flame. Thompson came over to

The New Season's Silhouette

Widened Shoulders And Hemlines.

CORDINGS, PIPINGS, ROLLS AND FOLDS

SKIRTS are doing things for autumn. The fitted waistline, the moulded hip line endorse the sheath silhouette; but hemlines grow interesting. The modified shoulder width repeats itself surprisingly at the hemline.

The cordings, pipings, rolls and folds used to give the squared-off shoulder effect are used again to animate hemlines. The fullness starts just above the ankle and flares outward. And therein lies the secret of the new silhouette: widened skirt bases. This trend is present in even the most conservative autumn fashions. Low-placed pleats or flares give a widened hemline to correspond with shoulder width.

Instead of concentrating all the interest in a top-heavy appearance, as in the spring, the autumn fashions divide the honours between shoulders and hemline, but with related detail and treatment that moulds the entire silhouette into a flowing, continuous line.

Shoulder Width Important

Slimming Effect On Waist And Hips.

DRESSMAKER DETAILS TO ACHIEVE RESULT.

BROAD shoulders have a magic way of making the waist and hips look slimmer. The autumn silhouette continues to endorse shoulder width, which is a great deal to be thankful for, as it is a flattering fashion. The trend is toward modified-broad-shoulders that have an eye on height as well as width.

The "puffed out" shoulder line in the leg-o-mutton tradition of spring and summer has been relegated to the past from which it sprang. Shoulder width for autumn is more subtle and less exaggerated.

Sleeves are terribly important to achieve a "squared-off" shoulder appearance. Width you must have; and height, too—but no cascades of frilly ruffles or billowing balloon sleeves.

Dressmaker details of cordings, pipings, rolls and folds are used importantly, but with restraint, to achieve this modified shoulder width.

Buttons Purely Ornamental

BUTTONS are being used less and less as buttons. They are purely ornamental, and metal, glass and wooden clips now do all the work of holding draperies and collars in place.

Curtain Washing Hints

Careful Ironing Is Important.

FILL the washing-tub half full of water, not too hot, in which some white soap has been dissolved. Put each curtain in separately and let it stand in the water for a few minutes to soak. Rub gently, and place in another tub or nice hot soapy water. Rub gently again, wring out with the hands and put through two clean cold water rinsings.

If they are to be re-creamed, put them through hot starch, to which a penny packet of borax has been added. Place on the line to dry lengthways, pull the edges out gently; when almost-dry, take down and fold and put through the mangle.

Iron well on the wrong side, pressing the edges carefully so as not to break them and the patterns will stand out on the right side.

Monkey Fur For Everything

MONKEY fur is going to be one of those vogues that became a nuisance. They wear it now on the gauntlets of black velvet gloves and on cravats which are carried loose in the hand when not tied round the throat.

Cascade Of Curls

THIS season's bob showing cascades of back curls below hat brims is very feminine and pretty, but very taxing to the purse and patience of our less fortunate sisters with straight hair. Only those who can afford much time and money on this type of coiffure should wear it. An uncured long bob gives one a very unattractive and unkempt appearance.

CAER CLARK CUP HOCKEY COMMENCES

C.B.A. Beat C.B.S. By 4 To 2.

LOSERS' FINE RECOVERY

Although beaten by 4 goals to 2 in the first Caer Clark Cup Ladies' Hockey encounter, the Centre British Schoolgirls gave a very promising display against the Central British Association Ladies at King's Park yesterday.

The Schoolgirls actually held the Ladies' team to a draw in the second half with two goals each, following a magnificent, but short-lived, recovery.

Miss Marie Smith proved the outstanding player in the Ladies' team scoring three of their four goals.

Miss Smith opened the scoring early in the first half and added a second goal before the teams crossed over.

The Schoolgirls made a great recovery in the opening stages of the second half when they completely dominated the game. A brilliant run down the field by Miss Roseman, followed by a neat centre, gave Miss Joyce Hooker an opportunity which was not wasted.

Miss Knill then made several speedy runs down the field and finally broke through to equalise.

The Schoolgirls, however, could not maintain their fast pace and Mrs. Miles put the C.B.A. in the lead after several determined attacks.

The Ladies once again gained the ascendancy and Miss Marie Smith added the fourth goal.

C.B.S.—Misses D. Moss, R. Ingram, J. Bryson, L. Lukeman, M. McCaw, J. Holland, E. Rousseau, L. Hickey, J. Barker and H. Knill.

GERMANS BEAT K.I.T.C.

Mamak Hockey Win In Last Minutes.

MULLER SCORES DECIDER

SCORING a goal in the last two minutes of the game the German Club secured their first two points in the Mamak Hockey Tournament by defeating the Kowloon Indians' Tennis Club hockey team by 3 goals to 2 on the Marian ground yesterday afternoon.

A mistake by G. Singh, the goalkeeper, cost the Indians the match after a brilliant recovery in the second half when they levelled the score of 2 goals against them.

The Indians were not playing up to form, their forward line missing many opportunities after getting within shooting range. They fielded four reserves Pintos, M. Singh, their centre-half, and the two wings, I. Singh and H. M. Singh, being absentees.

Pracht opened the scoring for the Germans shortly after the start of the game and Muller added the second goal for the Germans before half time.

The Indians made a fine recovery in the second half, and scored through K. Singh, following a free hit given against Pracht for pushing the ball with his hand just outside the D. In a breakaway soon after, the Indians levelled the score when a fine shot by D. Noronha gave Ammann no chance.

With only five minutes to play it looked as if the match would be drawn, but in an attack by the German forward line, G. Singh, the goalkeeper, in an attempt to stop a slow shot was robbed of the ball by Muller who netted.

German Club:—Ammann, Pracht, May, Dohrnecker, Sommer, Forst, Funk, Muller, Lange, Korloff and Welting.

K.I.T.C.—G. Singh, Naidu, T. Singh, S. Khan, S. Singh, G. M. Khan, Noronha, D. Noronha, Sousa, K. Singh and K. Hussain.

S. CHINA NARROWLY ESCAPE DEFEAT

SAINTS LEAD SENIOR SOCCER LEAGUE

SAINTS ROUT THE CLUB

ONE of the largest crowds seen on the Kowloon Football Club witnessed South China, the champions, snatch a dramatic last minute point from the Navy in their premier league soccer game yesterday. Thomas, the Navy centre half, was sent off the field early in the second half.

St. Joseph's routed the Club to secure first place in the League table and the Recoils recorded their first points against the Artillery. The Borderers defeated Kowloon in the other "big" match of the day.

The Borderers displaced South China at the head of the Second Division table when they beat the Navy, and South China lost to the Lincolns. In the Third Division the R.A.M.C. surprised South China by two clear goals.

FIRST DIVISION.

South China Snatch Dramatic Point.

NAVY TRIPLE UNFORTUNATE BEFORE HUGE CROWD

Played on the Kowloon Football Club's ground yesterday, the league encounter between the Navy and South China produced a fast kept game of football, full of thrills, and with the decision in the balance until the final whistle.

Before the game commenced, the ground was packed to capacity, and there were many who were necessarily disappointed, and even then, the ground in front of the stand was utilised for seats. It was the largest crowd seen on the Kowloon ground for many years.

From the start South China pressed strongly and forced two corners in quick succession, neither, however, proving fruitful. They had a chance, when given a good forward pass, but finished weakly, Liddington having no difficulty in clearing. Wong also finished poorly when well positioned, allowing Liddington to take the ball right off his toes.

ENID LO LOSES

MISS HANCOCK DISPLAYS FINE FORM AT U.S.R.C.

Champion Beaten In Three Sets.

MRS. ENID LO-LITTON WAS BEATEN IN THE SEMI-FINAL ROUND OF THE COLONY LADIES' LAWN TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP BY MISS R. HANCOCK BY SCORES OF 6-1, 2-6, 6-3 AT THE U.S.R.C. YESTERDAY.

For three years in succession Mrs. Litton has won the title. Miss Hancock is a very promising, though erratic, left-handed player.

Breaking through Mrs. Litton's first service Miss Hancock dropped the fourth game in a whirlwind display. In the second set the holder settled down to her normal play and lost only the fourth and fifth games.

In the final set Miss Hancock reproduced her best form, but Mrs. Litton was now playing a much improved game.

The champion, however, dropped her service in the seventh game, and after a thrilling struggle in the following game, which went to five deuces, she was down 5-3. She won only one point in the fifth and last game.

Miss Hancock will now meet either Mrs. James, last year's runner-up, or Miss V. Thomas in the final.

To-day the semi-finals of the doubles championship will be decided at the U.S.R.C. The matches are as follows:

Mrs. Litton and Mrs. R. E. Tottenham (holders) v Mrs. Stafford Smith and Miss V. Thomas.

Mrs. Lochner and Mrs. James v Miss Q. Dalziel and Miss M. Griffiths.

FI FA AND IRON GREY PAY $103.00

LAST-MINUTE ENTRANT WINS EWO HANDICAP

MR. PROULX LEADING JOCKEY

DEAD HEATS for places in three races and one shattered record give some indication of the keen racing in the Fourteenth Extra Meeting which was held at Happy Valley yesterday.

Liberty Bay, the Dunbar crack, ridden by Mr. Leo Frost, won the big event of the day, the St. Andrew's Stakes, with consummate ease, clipping 3/5th of a second off his own record of 3.02 seconds for the 1½ miles distance.

Five winning dividends of over $30 were paid out on the eight races. Don heading the list with $54.80 after springing a surprise in the Glasgow Handicap, "B".

Fi Fa, winner of the first leg of the "double," paid $37.30, and the success of Iron Grey, not favourable for the Inverness Handicap, gave 56 punters $103 on the "double."

Mr. "Benny" Proulx headed the jockey list with two wins in four starts while Messrs. E. O. Butler, G. U. da Roza, Leo Frost, F. M. L. Soares and P. P. Botelho each had a winner. Mr. "Johnnie" Heard recorded three.

Riding Mistletoe instead of Fighting Blood as the result of a last-minute change Mr. H. M. Remedios won the Ewo Handicap from Felicity Star (Mr. Butler) to pay only $34.00 for a win as compared with $106.50 paid out on the Sheldrake last year.

Taken into the lead from sixth position at the Rock, Mistletoe was first into the home straight to win from Mr. Butler's mount and Stable Secret (Mr. Dinnen) (which came through with a rush to throw his jockey after passing the winning position, Mr. Remedios was third last year on Fighting Blood.

The start of this race was not very satisfactory, the ponies with the bigger handicaps losing much ground at the start through uncertainty.

Don Pays Out $45.80 King's Bounty (Mr. Proulx) and Breechin (Mr. Butler) were sent into the lead in the Glasgow Handicap and retained their positions at the Rock where Don (Mr. da Roza) was lying third. Coming into the home straight Don took the lead on the corner, and in a glorious finish, reared a stern challenge from Valorous (Mr. Heard) to pay a win dividend of $54.80. Pride of Taling (Mr. Ip) finished strongly to deaden with The Tiger (Mr. Frost), who disappointed his many supporters.

The Record Shattered Sent out into the lead by Mr. Frost, the Dunbar crack, Liberty Bay, shattered his own 1½ miles record when he entered home in 3.01.2 to clip 0.3 off his own 1932 record and beat Sadko (Mr. Soares) by six lengths.

The thrill in this race was provided when Sadko responded well in the back straight to pip King's Justice (Mr. Heard) on the post after an amazingly near finish.

Fi Fa Not Caught Given a flying start by Mr. Proulx in the first leg of the "double," Fi Fa just managed to hold out in the face of stern challenge from Charming Face (Mr. Deltz) and King Salmon (Mr. Heard), the favourite, over the last furlong.

The Panther, second favourite, and Now's The Time started well, but cracked up badly in the back straight where the slowing moving King Salmon responded well after an indifferent run.

Fi Fa paid $37.30 for his first win and only 113 punters out of 1311 were on him for the first leg.

Runaway Win Tillcum (Mr. Butler) recorded his first win since the Annual Meeting when he won a runaway race from Solar Star (Mr. Noronha) who ran extraordinarily well to dead-heat with Royal Flush (Mr. Heard). 1½ lengths behind the winner.

In a field of fourteen starters in which Alexandra Hall, the favourite, was unplaced, Tillcum's win paid $30.40.

Lady Peel's Win City of Brisbane (Mr. Frost), the

346 RUNS IN 190 MINUTES

SET the task of scoring 184 runs in 94 minutes for victory in their premier league cricket encounter against the Army on the K.C.C. ground yesterday the home club scored 163 for 6 after losing their first three wickets for 10 runs.

The match produced 346 runs for 10 wickets in 190 minutes.

Capt. Williams played a most unorthodox innings for his 87, scored out of 141 in 67 minutes, most of his fifteen boundaries being the result of hooking balls outside the off stump. Lt. Garthwaite played a more polished knock for his 32, scored out of 58.

Teddy Fincher made a magnificent effort to give the K.C.C. victory, scoring 97 out of 133 in 78 minutes and hitting fourteen boundaries, the majority of which were straight drives and neat leg glances.

In partnership with N. A. E. Mackay (27) he added 107 runs in 52 minutes for the fourth wicket and was unfortunate to play a ball hard on to his wicket when only three short of the first League century of the season.

Effect Of Germany's Withdrawal League Loses Prestige And Revenue Has Hitler Handicapped The Cause Of Peace?

By PROFESSOR MAURICE GEROTHOHL

THE position created by Germany's withdrawal from the League and the Disarmament Conference is no doubt a grave one.

Indeed, unless it be tackled with both promptitude and prudence from a new angle and by new methods, it might easily develop at no very distant date into one which would seriously threaten the peace of Europe.

For the moment, however, there is and can be no danger of an open conflict.

In the first place, Germany's resignation of League membership will not take full effect for two years. Thus her relations with the other Powers will continue, for some time to come, to be regulated by the stipulations of the League Covenant, which prohibits any aggression by one Power against another.

This ban on war is reinforced by the adherence of Germany and of all her neighbours to the Kellogg Pact, by which they undertook to renounce war as an instrument of national policy and to submit all their disputes to a settlement by pacific methods.

The "Iron Curtain"

Yet more precise and peremptory than these two multilateral agreements is the Locarno Rhineland Pact. Under this Treaty Germany and France (and Germany and Belgium) mutually pledged themselves not to attack or invade each other, and agreed, in special Treaties, to submit any dispute between them to conciliation, arbitration, or judicial settlement.

In addition, Britain and Italy, under the same Rhineland Pact, agreed to guarantee, by force if necessary, the existing Franco-German and Belgo-German frontiers against a direct and unprovoked aggression by either party. In the same way Britain and Italy guaranteed the inviolability of the demilitarised Rhine zone established by the Versailles Treaty by either Germany or France.

This Anglo-Italian guarantee was recently and simultaneously reaffirmed by Britain (through Mr. Baldwin) and Italy.

It has been further implemented by the Four-Power Pact concluded this year between Britain, France, Italy and Germany, which provided a new method of smoothing away such differences as might arise between themselves by direct and frequent consultation.

Locarno, in a word, set up a kind of "iron curtain" between France and Germany, which either would hesitate to pass without the sanction and support of the British and Italian guarantors.

Injured Pride

Besides, even if Germany had the will she would still lack the means to wage war.

The two statements by Chancellor Hitler, explaining the reasons which have dictated Germany's latest move, disclaim all thought of aggression, and do so with an argument and a tone that convey a strong impression of sincerity. Germany is withdrawing from the Conference and the League because of the injury to her national pride as a Great Power, which, she holds, she has suffered by the refusal of the British and French Governments, among others, to concede to her any immediate measure of "token" equality in armaments.

She deems intolerable the maintenance, for yet a period of years, the present inequality in status between herself and the other Great Powers.

Her attitude in this respect, and possibly the action to which it has now led, were foreseen by Washington as well as Rome.

Serious Setback

In consequence, both Italy and America felt impelled, at the last minute, to urge that for the purpose of securing Germany's agreement to the proposed Disarmament Convention—which would be valueless without it—her plea for equal status should be conceded in the shape of a slight practical concession—a few samples of heavy guns and tanks.

Since Germany, however, has actually left the Conference, the cause of Disarmament has suffered for the time being a serious setback. The view is widely taken that to proceed to elaborate a Convention in her absence would serve no useful purpose.

In the present circumstances an adjournment of the Conference would seem to be the most rational course. It would provide a respite, of which advantage might be taken by the great Western Powers, in association with America, to pick up with Germany the broken threads of the Disarmament negotiations. As a matter of fact, Article 3 of the Four-Power Pact contains something like an injunction to this effect. It runs:

"The High Contracting Parties undertake to make every effort to ensure the success of the Disarmament Conference, and, should questions which particularly concern them remain in suspense on the conclusion of that Conference, they reserve the right to re-examine these questions between themselves in pursuance of the present agreement with a view to ensuring their solution through the appropriate channels."

Re-Arming Dangers

The official communique issued in Rome yesterday would suggest that an early move in this direction may be initiated by Signor Mussolini.

Nor should it be forgotten that even before the conclusion of the Four-Power Pact had actually been proposed by Italy, Mr. MacDonald had more than once advocated preliminary meetings between the Great Powers, in advance of those of the Disarmament Conference. This was to be the best means of exploring and removing or attenuating by preliminary and tentative agreement, the threatened differences and difficulties.

Whether this meeting of the Great Powers be convened on the strength of the Four-Power Pact or not, the holding of it is a matter of urgency.

It is imperative to avert a situation in which Germany might proceed to rearm feverishly on a large scale, and France, alleging, on this account, a wholesale violation by the Reich of the Versailles Treaty, turn her mind to the idea of a "preventive" war. For, in the opinion of the jurists, there are, strictly speaking, no "Treaty sanctions" applicable in this case.

Not His Kind.
Farmer Giles noticed a youth lounging near the dairy door.
"I say, young fellow," he said, "what's the attraction round here?"
"Oh, e-e-er, I've just called to see the milkmaid," said the youth rather nervously.
"Have you, now," said the farmer, an ominous light in his eyes. "Well, I'll have you know our milk is not made, it comes straight from the cows."

No Male Competition

Motherhood, says a writer, is still the best career for women. They have the field to themselves, anyway.

A Cold Reply.

"I say, John," said the young man, full of confidence. "I've just been thinking how jolly it would be if we two got married. Any objections?"

"Dough," replied the young lady at once.

He reached for his hat and made for the door.
"H'm," he replied, "I might have known you'd have thought of that snag first."

He departed into the night, while she, poor girl—with a cold in her head—wondered why he left when she had accepted him.

Time For Rejoicing.
Sandy was all smiles when he returned home.

"What's the news, mon?" asked his wife, puzzled.

"Wonderful, lassie," said the Scot. "I've just heard that next week they are going to put the local paper up to tuppence."

"Mon, mon, have ye gone crazy?" asked his wife. "Why, there's nothing to rejoice at over that."

"Oh, yes, there is, Jennie," Sandy went on. "Ye ken that when I used to go to the free library to look through it I used to save a penny—now I'll be saving tuppence."

"Say, Werry, ain't youse one uv dem fellers wot don't believe in doing two things ter wunst?"
"Two things? Why, I'm one uv dem chaps wot don't believe in doin' one thing ter wunst."

It Was Successful.

"Are you still bothered by those relatives of yours who come down from town to eat a big Sunday dinner and never invite you in?"

"No," said the unfortunate victim. "they finally took the hint."

"What did you say to them?" asked Mrs. Smith eagerly.
"Nothing," was said, explained the other, "but we served sponges cake every time they came."

"Oh, madam," said the girl in tones of great disappointment, "where are your lovely pearls to-night?"

"I'm not wearing them to-night, Jane," replied the mistress.
"What a pity, madam!" said Jane. "An' they made you look so like a ren' lady."

"BULL-DOG" ANTS ARE DOOMED

170 Known Species.
In Australia.

ENTOMOLOGIST'S STUDY

Melbourne, Victoria.
That the "bull-dog" or "bull"
ants are doomed to extinction,
ultimately, is the opinion of Mr. John Clark, entomologist at the National Museum. For many years he has made a special study of the "bull" ants, and has kept specimens of more than half of the 170 known species in glass topped formicaria.

From observation of these home pets he has learned many secrets of "bull-dog" life.
The most primitive forms of ant life, our world-famous
"bull-dogs" cannot accommodate themselves to the changes due to closer settlement and cultivation, but it may be a century, or longer, before the more abundant species become rare others will disappear sooner, all, eventually, may share the fate of our lost aboriginal tribes.

A Queensland "bull" ant is the largest of all the thousands of ants known to science. It is nearly one inch and a half long,
and has a very formidable sting.
The smallest kind of a bull-ant is only a quarter inch long, and occurs in Western Australia.

The commonest bull ants are the black and red. The small black jumper whose stinging power is well known to picnicers are also plentiful.

Mr. Clark's observations show that the average number of ants
in a "bull dog" colony is between 200 and 300, often the nest contains only 50 to 100 individuals, while, exceptionally, up to 500
forms the community.

Bull ants feed chiefly upon nectar and the exudations of trees and shrubs. But the larvae are carnivorous and worker
ants go hunting for insects
upon which to feed them.—

PRESIDENT PAYS YOUTH'S FINE.

"No Imprisonment For Defamation."

San Jose, Costa Rica.

President Jimenez, long a champion of freedom of press and speech, demonstrated his devotion to that cause recently by paying the fine of a youth who had been imprisoned for defaming the President. The young man had been jailed because he had been unable to pay the fine.

Senor Jimenez requested the immediate release of the prisoner,
and urged that nobody be imprisoned during his administration
for anything said about the President.—Reuter.

Effect Of Germany's Withdrawal.

The legal question whether Germany, by rearmament at this date,
was violating the Treaty of Versailles, or whether she had been liberated from her disarmament obligations by the failure of the Allied Powers to disarm, could only be settled by a tribunal like the International Court at The Hague.

Fortunately, Chancellor Hitler is emphatic in the expression of his desire to reach an understanding with France, and France possesses in M. Daladier a statesman who combines great coolness of judgment and common sense with determination.

Besides, as I have already pointed out, the reaffirmation of Locarno by Britain and Italy should go far towards preventing any precipitate
and reckless action by either Germany or France.

French Security
Berlin is aware that the re-entry
at this juncture of the German army within the demilitarised zone would find Britain and Italy aligned with France. On the other hand, France realises that she could not risk forfeiting the security thus afforded by Britain and Italy against a German aggression by herself invading the same zone in pursuance of a so-called preventive war, or on grounds deemed invalid or inadequate by the guarantor Powers.

How timely and felicitous from the standpoint of all its signatories, and of the peace of Europe
generally, this Anglo-Italian re-

Reminder of Locarno was, is now clearly seen in the light of what has happened at Geneva.

This is not to say that Germany's withdrawal from the Disarmament Conference and the League does not create serious embarrassments for both organisations. With the difficulties that now confront the Conference I have already dealt.

Those which beset the League may prove more lasting. For Germany's exit, which follows closely on Japan's,
will reduce the permanent members
of the League Council to three, instead of five. Indeed, of the seven great Powers (including America and Russia) no fewer than four are outside.

Co-Operation Lost

This is bound to entail for the League a decrease in both prestige and revenue and to more self-assertion by the smaller Powers. And that will hardly make for unity.

On the other hand, during the next two years, whenever a question affecting her rights, obligations and interests was raised on the League Council, Germany would still be able (as would be even a non-member in similar circumstances) to attend and present her case. But, for the time being,
her general co-operation will be lost to Europe.

The Soviet's New Alliances.

THE amazing changes in world affairs that have taken place this year, together with the adroit skill of that remarkable Soviet diplomat, M. Litvinoff, have done much to restore Russia to the good graces of the nations allied with her under the Czarist regime. M. Litvinoff is now in Italy where he is almost certain to add to his recent successes in other European and American capitals. It is a strange and swift turn of fortune's wheel that has brought together Communist Russia, Fascist Italy, capitalistic America, and France with her powerful group of martial satellites. The ultimate ramifications of this probable concord would embrace practically all the nations of the civilised world, and political alliance is often a valuable precursor to reciprocal trade and financial accommodation otherwise denied. Owing to Trotsky's assertive policy of carrying the gospel of Communism to the uttermost ends of the earth, in defiance of the interests and sensibilities of other peoples, Russia long remained an outlaw among the nations, perpetually suspect, and with little hope of admission to any effective alliances with the major Powers. The modification of this policy, and concentration on the domestic problems of maintaining the schedules of the Five Year Plans by the Stalin group, made alliances between the Soviet and other countries possible, but the deep-rooted fear and distrust of Communist sincerity were not readily assuaged. Under the circumstances, it was natural for the Soviet to make tentative advances to Germany, almost as isolated as itself and turning freely to Communist ideals. The outcome was the Russo-German pact, an arrangement inherently incompatible with a similar rapprochement with France and the other Great Powers. Russia was fortuitously rescued from this diplomatic cul-de-sac by forces beyond its own control. The Nazi revolution also revolutionised the international situation, creating a new Germany fiercely inimical to Moscow, and spreading alarm among France and her eastern allies, whose fears of Nazi expansionist doctrines and revision of boundaries prescribed by the peace treaties made them reconsider Russian overtures in a more favourable light. The Soviet was also increasingly anxious to be rid of European embarrassments, so as to be free to cope with problems arising from Japan's occupation of Manchuria, the claims of Manchukuo Government to the former Chinese rights in the Chinese Eastern Railway, and the new strategic menace to lines of communication with the maritime provinces of Siberia. With militarism stirring restlessly to east and west of it, the Soviet realised the urgent necessity of making friends. From this pregnant situation a galaxy of pacts and understandings has rapidly emerged. Ten non-aggression pacts have already been negotiated by the Soviet, including Poland and the Little Entente, contiguous to its western frontier. France and Italy, thereby establishing a protective bulwark against Nazi hostility, settling the vexed question of Bessarabia with Rumania to the latter's satisfaction, and creating a basis for positive accord with France and her smaller allies. As war between Italy and Russia is rendered remote through geographical considerations, their agreement has wider significance than mutual non-aggression, and paramount importance attaches to the clauses providing that the signatories will not enter into commercial or political agreements that might prejudice each other. The French pact is similar to the Italian, though omitting the same war relationship. Turkey also dovetails into the comprehensive scheme, and evidence of the growing affinity between these former enemies is to be seen in the development of the Turkish textile industry by Soviet capital and brains, and with equipment provided by Russian factories. Thus girdled with protective alliances against Nazi aspirations in Europe, the Soviet is also finding new supporters in the Far East. The influence of the Japanese occupation of Manchuria and aspirations to an Asian hegemony is evident in recent developments in United States policy. The first of these is the revival of the big navy programme. The second is the advance of credits to the Soviet. The third is America's diplomatic recognition of the Soviet, which will have an important effect on all international policy. While trade advantages acted as an incentive to Washington, political reasons were the main factor in determining America's attitude.

Transfers to R.A.F.

The new Army Council instruction which regularises the system of the temporary transfer of Army officers to the R.A.F. largely restores the conditions of pre-war service.

Before 1914 Army officers were seconded or could be transferred to the Royal Flying Corps, or Naval Officers to the Royal Naval Air Service. In April, 1918, the R.F.C. and the R.N.A.S. were merged in the Royal Air Force.

Many members of both forces were not reconciled to the change—not only on sentimental grounds, but because they considered no step should be taken which loosened the bonds of co-operation between the two older services and the junior one.

The American Way

When, a few years ago, the Fleet was granted its own Air Arm, these critics felt that the lesson had been learned. The new Army Order will be taken as further confirmation of the wisdom of their objections.

For, though the R.A.F. remains primarily a separate service, one of the avowed objects of secondments to the R. A. F. is to disseminate within the Army a knowledge of Air Force work.

In the United States the air service is still a unit of the Army and Navy, and the Government has resisted all suggestions that a separate service should be created.

The Party System

Sir Ernest Simon, in his book, "The Anti-Slum Campaign," published by Longman's, delivers a strong attack on the party system. The whole housing muddle is, in his opinion, to the satisfaction of Conservative and Labour Governments since the war with their diametrically opposed views on the question of subsidies.

"The alternation of two Governments," he writes, "holding such antagonistic views has resulted in disastrous waste."

Sir Ernest himself is a victim of the party system. He stood last time for the supposedly anti-Liberal seat of Penryn and Falmouth as a supporter of the National Government, was opposed by both Conservative and Socialist candidates, and lost by over 2000 votes to the former.

What is a Slum?

His exposition of what types of dwelling really constitute "slums" is interesting. He considers that the word can be used in four different senses and gives the following estimate of the number of houses in England and Wales covered by each definition:

The worst cellar dwellings—10,000;

Really bad houses in "courts"—100,000;

On the basis of houses condemned in Manchester—1,000,000;

Houses that certainly should be replaced—4,000,000.

The Manchester Medical Officer of Health has estimated that there are 30,000 houses unfit for human habitation in that city.

Exit "Buck"

London will be without one of its best-known figures for at least a year. Captain Herbert Buckmaster sailed for Delagoa Bay on October 2.

"I am going right round the world," he told a press representative. "The first stage, and, if possible all the stages, will be in a cargo boat. Lascar crew, and we don't touch land for five weeks."

Captain Buckmaster explains the cargo boat by saying he does not want to get "soft." He will have need of the hardening process.

The official description of the place—"low and very unhealthy"—is quite apt. It is certainly low.

Captain Buckmaster would have sailed sooner had it not been for the supervision of the activities of Buck's Club at Ascot, Goodwood and Le Touquet. Buck's although a social success, has never paid a dividend or its founder a salary.

America Cup Challenge

The news that Mr. Tommy Sopwith is to challenge the United States for the America Cup will please all yachtsmen. His boat, the Endeavour, has been designed by Mr. Charles Nicholson, who was responsible for the last two Shamrocks, and is now nearing completion on the Clyde.

Only one of the four American yachts that competed for the honour of defending the cup against Shamrock V. in 1930 is now eligible to race under the new rules, by which the dimensions of the rigging have been altered. She is the Wootamoo and finished second to Mr. Vanderbilt's Enterprise, the winner three years ago.

Wootamoo is owned by Mr. Frederick H. Prince, a Boston financier. He is now in London attending the meetings of the International Yacht Racing Union, who are the supervising authority for the race.

The Cadogan Estate

The late Lord Cadogan, whose settled estate has been valued for probate at £2,000,000, was probably the third largest ground landlord in Central London, leaving aside charities and corporations.

Most of his property lay between Sloane-square and Port-street, and included Cadogan Square, Gardens and Place, half Sloane-street and Hans-crescent. He also owned isolated blocks as far West as Beaufort-street, Chelsea.

He played no part in the administration of his estate, which was entirely controlled by trustees.

London Landlords

Undoubtedly the largest individual landlord in Central London is the Duke of Westminster. He owns, and to a large extent personally administers, the cream of Mayfair and Belgravia: both Grosvenor and Belgrave Squares are his property.

Next to him ranks Lord Portman, whose property lies north of Oxford-street and covers Portman, Bryanston and Montagu Squares.

Lord Howard de Walden, with a great block of houses centring round Portland-place and including Cavendish-square, probably ranks fourth.

Sacrificing a Blue

Mr. Victor Rothschild, grandson of the first Baron Rothschild, whose engagement to Miss Barbara Hutchinson was announced recently, is one of the very few rich men's sons who have sacrificed a cricket Blue for a degree.

Mr. Rothschild had a very good season for Harrow in 1929, when he made 65 against Winchester and 43 against Eton. He went up to Cambridge in the autumn of the same year.

After playing as a schoolboy for Northamptonshire he seemed sure of his Blue. In his last year the honour would almost certainly have come to him.

Mr. Rothschild, however, is a scientist. Deciding that playing cricket might interfere with his chances of obtaining a First in his Tripos, he turned his back on Fenner's.

He got his First.

70-Year-Old Indian's Four Year Tour.

She is Princess Natirich Saunders, a full-blooded Cherokee Indian, who, on her arrival here, confessed that for the past four years she had been "hitch-hiking" through every State in the Union, Canada, Cuba and Mexico.—Reuter.

BERI-BERI EPIDEMIC IN ST. LOUIS

Woman Scientist's Discovery.

FINDS FILTERABLE VIRUS

St. Louis, Missouri.

Discovery by a woman pathologist of the presence of a filterable virus in the bodies of "sleeping sickness" victims is acclaimed as the first important finding in science's effort to seek a cause of cure for the puzzling disease which has taken 55 lives here in the last five weeks.

The woman is Dr. Margaret G. Smith, Assistant Professor of Pathology at the Washington University School of Medicine, and a graduate of Johns Hopkins University.

Her findings were announced at a meeting of the St. Louis Medical Society, which was attended by nearly 1,800 persons who were interested in learning something about the epidemic which has gripped the city and its suburbs.

Dr. Howard McCordock, Washington University pathologist, who announced Dr. Smith's laboratory findings, said it had long been suspected that such a virus was responsible for the the malady, but that Dr. Smith's discovery was the first scientific proof.

Determination that the disease is caused by such a virus, Dr. McCordock asserted, does not isolate the cause of encephalitis, but it narrowed the search materially.

As the number of cases increased to 276 in St. Louis County and 155 in the city, Dr. E. T. McGaugh, State Health Commissioner, announced that his department had effected plans to acquaint medical men of the state with all available information concerning the disease.

Meanwhile city and federal health officers here, upon hearing that visitors were avoiding St. Louis and Missouri because of the "sleeping sickness" outbreak, issued statements designed to allay fear in the minds of outsiders. They pointed out that there was no evidence that the disease is contagious, and that business was going on the same as usual.—Reuter.

CUBA PREPARING MACHADO CASE

Ten Actions Against Former President.

MAY SEEK EXTRADITION

Havana, Cuba.

Signor Guillermo de Montagu, a magistrate in the Havana Audiencia Court, has been appointed by the Supreme Court to prepare indictments against ex-President Gerardo Machado and other leaders of his deposed regime based on accusations of wrong doing while in office.

Ten separate actions brought against the former President will probably be lumped into a single case on which his extradition from exile may be sought.

Senior Garcilaso Delavega, a lawyer, members of the A. B. C. secret society, students and others accuse Machado and his assistants of conspiring to seize all Government funds and receipt before fleeing.

There after, the charge reads, "Desiring to determine the greatest number of citizens," they designated one of their number to assume "falsely the name of an A. B. C. radical" and announce Machado's resignation, whereupon people flocked into the streets. More than 30 were subsequently killed and more than two hundred wounded.—Reuter.

Contrary to his usual practice, the Pope had the blinds up and the windows of his motor-car half open when he drove with his suite of seven cars to the church of Santa Maria Maggiore on his last Holy Year excursion from the Vatican.

He made the visit to perform pilgrimage rites and to attend Mass. As he motored along his devoted route little groups of spectators caught glimpses of His Holiness and burst into cries of "Viva Il Papa."

There was a wild outburst of cheers when he passed beneath the windows of Signor Mussolini's office.

On arrival at the church at 10, his holiness was borne in on the Gestatorial chair, peacock fans being waved on either side.

This is the first time that a Pope has visited the church since 1870. At noon he blessed the crowd of thousands of pilgrims from the outside balcony.—Reuter.

The regulations governing the children's playgrounds, Chatham Road and Middle Road, Kowloon, will in future apply also to the children's playground at Cox's Road, Kowloon.

The keeping of any cattle, swine, sheep or goats within the boundaries of Tai Po New Market (Tai Wo Shi). Un Long New Market and Hang Hau is prohibited.

Sentences of two months' hard labour was imposed by Mr. Balfour at the Central Magistracy yesterday morning on Woo Chak, an old job cooly, for stealing a felt hat at 191 Des Voeux Road.

The Hon. Mr. Nelson T. Johnson, United States Ambassador to China, left Hong Kong by the s.s. President Coolidge yesterday, for the North.

53 EUROPEAN BROADCASTING EXPERTS MEET

Wave-Length Problem Discussed.

NEW AGREEMENT POSSIBLE

Amsterdam.

Fifty-three delegates of practically all European countries, including Great Britain, assembled in the "Amstel Hotel" at Amsterdam to take part in the meeting of the International Broadcasting Union, to discuss the vital problems of wave-lengths.

Admiral Sir Charles Carpendale, controller of the B. B. C., who has annually been elected president of the Union since its foundation in 1925, is presiding over the conference.

The various questions to be dealt with are to be discussed in the different commissions, and sharp criticism is expected on the new division of wave-lengths, according to the plan drawn up at the recent international radio conference at Lucerne.

Eight countries, viz.: Holland, Sweden, Greece, Finland, Lithuania, Luxembourg, Hungary and Poland refused to sign the Lucerne plan and it is now hoped that the Conference in Amsterdam may bring about a new agreement.

It is understood that attempts will be made to obtain the adherence of these countries to the plan of Lucerne by giving them widespread concessions.

It is generally agreed that without a strong rapprochement, a keen competition of radio-emitters at the frontiers of the different countries is inevitable.

Mr. A. B. Burrows, the Union's secretary, informed Reuters, that an official communiqué will be issued at the end of the conference, and that no information at all will be given in the meantime.

Soviet-Russia is only taking part in the discussions of the technical commission. The Baltic states are not represented.—Reuter.

A successful concert, the first half of which was broadcast from the local station, was given at the Sailors' and Soldiers' Home on Wednesday evening last.

The artists contributing were: Mrs. E. Snowden Jones, Soprano, Mrs. F. T. Portallion, Contralto, Mr. W. Houston Bailey, Baritone, Mr. E. O. Schroeter, Violin, Mrs. G. Griggs and Lt. Colonel C. Kuhne, at two pianos, while Mrs. G. Griggs and Mr. Frederick Mason, A. R. C. O., accompanied.

The two-piano items contributed by Mrs. Griggs and Lt. Colonel Kuhne were an outstanding feature of an excellent and well-rendered programme. The pianos used were lent by the Tsang Fook Piano Company.

It is hoped that on future occasions, when many of the leading artists of the Colony are giving their services at similar concerts, it will be possible to broadcast the whole programme.

COOK-BOY STILL AT LARGE

Police Co-operate With Canton.

MRS. HUNTER PROGRESSES SATISFACTORILY

Mrs. H. J. Hunter, of 56A, Nathan Road, who was savagely attacked by her house-boy, Tong Wing-kwok, with a kitchen knife on Thursday afternoon, is progressing satisfactorily as can be hoped, though she is still very weak from loss of blood from her many wounds.

Mrs. Hunter's condition is such that she is still unable to give a statement to the police of the details of the attack made on her by her house-boy, Tong Wing-kwok.

A representative of the Sunday Herald was informed yesterday that the Police have not yet received the doctor's permission to take a statement from Mrs. Hunter as any excitement might interfere with her progress. She is still very weak from loss of blood and strict orders have been given to keep her very quiet.

It is understood that the police were not informed of the attack until well over two hours after the time at which it is supposed to have taken place and it is thought that the fugitive may have been able to get across the British border. The Canton authorities are said to be co-operating with the local police in the endeavour to secure his arrest.

The only statement made by Mrs. Hunter in reference to the crime was her exclamation "It was the boy," while on her way to hospital in the ambulance.

The Matron of the Kowloon Hospital stated, at a late hour last night, that Mrs. Hunter was still very weak and cannot yet be considered out of danger.

Dismissed Strikers
Threaten Trouble.

EMERGENCY SQUAD STANDING BY

The Emergency Squad of the Police turned out in full force at 10 o'clock yesterday morning in answer to a call from the Hong Kong and Canton Steamboat Company's wharf, opposite the Wing On Company's building in Connaught Road Central, where trouble was expected on the arrival of the s.s. Fatshan.

It is understood that the wharf-coolies who were dismissed as a result of the recent strike assembled at the wharf with the intention of creating trouble with the newly-engaged coolies who were on board the Fatshan.

When, however, the steamer arrived at 11 a.m. nothing happened, though the wharf was thickly crowded with coolies.

The Emergency Squad remained in attendance until the crowds dispersed.

Navy Nearly Beat S. China

Hudspeth Goes Close

At the other end Hudspeth was rather unlucky when after he had dribbled through his shot struck the bottom of the upright with Pau well beaten—another couple of inches would have meant a certain goal.

South China then broke away, and Leung sent Tay
away with a long forward pass.
The Navy defenders appealed for off-side, but the referee
waved for play to continue.

Tay ran on down the wing
and centred well for FUNG KING CHEONG to flash the ball past Liddington.
Half time came with no further
score, but on the run of the play,
the Navy deserved to be at least on level terms.

Thomas Sent Off
Thomas then secured possession and was tackled by Wong. The tackle was an unfair one and the referee held up play for the infringement. Thomas, however, was incensed and struck Wong, the referee having no alternative but to order him to leave the field.

After this regrettable incident, however, the Navy played a much better game, and within a few minutes had drawn level through BAIRNETT, who headed past Pau-
from Langmead's pass.

Smith was going through, but was unfairly tackled just outside the penalty area, and the Navy were awarded a free kick. SKINNER came over from the left wing to take the kick sent a very low shot straight through a crowd of South China defenders to enter the net at a terrible pace, Pau being unslighted.

South China's Equaliser

With only a few minutes to go South China's desperate efforts for the equaliser were rewarded when the ball was cleared from the Navy
goalmouth to LAI KWOK-WAI,
who met the ball first-time to fire
in a tremendous drive, which went through a crowded goal area into the net. There was hardly time for the kick-off before the final whistle blew.

Saints Go Nap Against Club.

B. GOSANO SCORES THREE FOR WINNERS

The match between last Saturday's 'giant-killers,' St. Josephs and the Club, resulted in an easy win
for the former by five clear goals.
Neither team reproduced their form of the previous week. The Club were without their leader, Howe, and the Saints, after taking
the measure of their opponents,
were never fully extended.

A grant recovery by Leonard after a weak corner resulted in the Saints opening the score, B. Gosano netting easily. Fowler was then sent through, but he missed badly,
and then Ward scored with a first-time shot from a good pass from Rocha after Fogwill had saved well
from Leonard.

Within two minutes of the restart, the Saints were three up. B.
Gosano netting from a good centre from Rocha. The Club now showed signs of improvement, but Gosano went through again to drive
just over the bar. Marques saved well from Lawson, who missed later when through, and Elms relieved the pressure and Leonard gave Gosano an easy chance to beat Fog-will once again. Near the end a good forward movement ended with Ward scoring after Leonard had failed to gather the ball.

St. Joseph's:—Marques; L. Gomes
and A. V. Gosano; V. Marques, N.
Beltrao and F. J. Elms; B. Gosano, A.
Ward, D. Leonard, L. Rocha and L.
Fernandes.

Club:—Fogwill; Hynes and S.
Strange; Robertson, Boyd, and Duncan; Lawson, Dornay, Fowler, E.
Strange and Blekford.

Borderers Secure Points Against Kowloon.

WOODFIELD MISSES PENALTY

Kowloon proved no match for the Borderers at Sookunpoo, the soldiers winning easily by three clear goals.

Both teams quickly settled down and the first real attack resulted in the Borderers taking the lead.
Hazelwood scoring with a good drive. Kowloon played determined football after this early reverse and Blake was prominent on the left.
Smith had some hard drives to deal with and two shots from Hill fortunately found Smith in the right position. A scrimmage in the Borderers goal ended when Morris-son was penalised, but Woodfield shot over from the 'spot.'

Some delightful football was witnessed after the interval with Duncan and Harris gaining ground by splendid passing. Forney had a number of chances to score, but he was hitting the post when five yards
out. Kowloon's attacks were beaten back by strong kicking by Morrison and Mullane, and on one occasion
the former sent the ball up to Forney, who scored with a low drive. From the kick-off Harris, after a clever dribble, sent Forney
through to score again.

Borderers:—Smith, Mullane and Hazelwood; Wallace, Padmore and Jones;
Matthews, Harris, Forney, Hazelwood
and Duncan.

Kowloon:—Cord; Willis, and Jones; Woodfield, Timberlake, Bliss; Whitehead, Lewis, Elliot, Hill and Blake.

Sousa Gives Recreio Two Points.

At King's Park yesterday, the Recreio defeated the Artillery by the only goal scored in a game that was without interest and which produced few thrills.

Half time came with the score
blank, and the second period commenced with neither team appearing to care whether they scored goals or not. Occasional breakaways were easily repulsed,
and a drawn game seemed inevitable until Castillo raced away passed to Sousa, who netted the only goal of the match.

Recreio:—E. Marques; R. Silva-Netto and J. Bowen; J. G. Goncalves,
N. T. Delgado and W. Maher; T. Cas-
tilho, G. Gutierrez (Capt.), W. Sousa, J. Gomes and J. Alves.

Artillery:—Combes; Allan and Wroe; Warrington, Pardoe and Rodgers; Barracough, Woods, Green-shields, and Senl.

SECOND DIVISION.

Eight Kowloon Players Give Plucky Display.

Kowloon put up a plucky fight against the Artillery at Sookunpoo, their eight men losing only by two goals to nil.

The Gunners enjoyed most of the play, but the Kowloon defence played very well, Boyes early making some great saves from the Artillery forwards. There were numerous scrimmages round the Kowloon goal and from one of these Collier passed well to Birmingham who scored from close in. G. White and G.
Winch were prominent in the rare
Kowloon attacks and with a little support would have kept Wood a little busier.

Five minutes from time the Artillery scored again through Hopkins.

Artillery:—Wood; Price and Gb-
bons; Hunt, Collier and Scott; Biemingham, Edmunds, Hopkins, Knight and Hill.

Kowloon:—Boyes; Everest, and P.
White; J. Winch, Catter and Tillery;
G. White and G. Winch.

Club Beat Division Champions.

The Athletic, last season's champions, are disappointing their supporters this year. On the Club ground yesterday they lost by the old goal in three, and the Club played with only ten men in the first half!

The Athletic approach work was good, but only Lo Chai-wan and Chung Moon-wing showed any ball control near goal.

After ten minutes Fisher broke through, his shot being only partially saved by Lui Kam-ming, and Hooper netted from close in. Later Duncan went through, his shot
striking the crossbar, and Hooper headed in.

A good run by Kwok Yui-wing resulted in Lo Chai-wan scoring a good goal with a first-time shot.

There was no further scoring
after the interval though both sides went close, Skinner, who went in goal, making some good saves.

Club:—Skinner; Ralston and R. Gol-man; McKellar, Low, Gamble; Fisher, Lowe, Duncan, Hooper and Forrow.

Athletic:—Lui Kam-ming; Chung
Moon-wing and Chan Sin-chung; Lo Chanchoi, Lau So and Li Ping-nui; Lo Chan-ip Yui-boi, Ho Ki-chung, Lo Chai-wan, Chung Moon-wing and Kwok Yui-wing.

Lincolns Triumph Over South China.

At Chatham Road the Lincolns
second string defeated the South
China second team by 4 goals to 2.

A large crowd was present at the start, and South China attacked immediately, but were repulsed easily. The game was transferred to the other end of the field where Setters opened the score for the Lincolns.

Play was even for a time until South China broke away and equalised through Pan Chu-wing. A few minutes later the same player scored again from a free kick to give his side the lead. The advantage was not held for long, however, the Lincolns drawing level
from a penalty awarded for an offence against Setters, Deacon making no mistake with the "spot
kick."

Setters placed the Lincolns ahead
following a breakaway, and a little later, a nice run down the left wing ended in McGuinness netting the Lincolns' fourth goal.

Lincolns:—Deacon; Steans, Edman-
son; Maughan, Worrell, Robson; Clayton, Harper, Setters, McGuinness
and Toynce.

South China:—Wong Wah-kei;
Ching Chi-ying and Yau King-yat; Ip Keung-wing, Pan Tak-po and Tam Wahling; Chui Wan-king, Pan Chu-wing, Kau Shick-wai, Ma Po-kan and Young Poon-lon.

Navy Do Not Take Opportunities.

The Navy second string were not quite good enough for the Navy Borderers yesterday, the latter winning a good clean game by the old goal in three.

Herbert opened the scoring for the Borderers after a melee in the Navy goal area. Potts had already saved well from Marshall, but the ball was not properly cleared, and the centre forward was presented with an open net.

John put the Borderers further ahead with a splendid effort, driving well past Potts.

It was not until late in the second half that the Navy reduced the lead through McNeill. McClurg sent the ball over from a free kick
for Shoobrook to head to McNeill,
for the latter to walk the ball into the net.

where Geoffrey was lying on the floor and administered a heavy kick. "By God, Barracough, but you will live long enough to regret the way you treated me last night. I'll get even, never fear! Not again am I going to let you be unbound. Lucky for you that my business necessitated my presence elsewhere during the day, or even now you would be praying for death. But don't worry. You can have tonight in which to call your soul your own if your thoughts will let you. I am too tired myself to be bothered with you until tomorrow. Then, I promise you I will make some of my Tibetan friends practise all their skill on your dirty body. In the meanwhile, take that And that!" He kicked Geoffrey again and again as he lay helpless and bound on the floor.

There was none of the suave, mocking Thompson of the previous day. His natural temper and cowardice asserted themselves so that he delighted in kicking the unresisting body of the man who had made such a desperate fight against odds. Geoffrey noted that his face was strangely swollen and had a somewhat lopsided appearance. There were also blue bruises on his throat. Apparently the episode of the night before had left marks on his features as well as on his temper, and the thought compensated Geoffrey for the kicks.

Just then the main door to the room opened and the two Tibetan servants entered, bringing food. They laid his on the table to which Thompson sat down immediately. Some food was placed on the floor beside Geoffrey. His hands were unbound and he was told to eat. At first the very thought revolted him, but he remembered his determination of but a few minutes before, that he would not give up hope, and he fell to. The two Tibetans stood over him the while, watching every movement and each mouthful, ready to pounce should he arouse their suspicion for an instant. On the completion of this strange meal Geoffrey was once more bound.

Thompson's temper was evidently largely dependent on his appetite. When he finished his meal he again treated Geoffrey with his former mock courtesy and exaggerated politeness.

"So, my dear Barracough, my turn has come round once more. But surely you could never have been quite such a blatant optimist to imagine that your triumph could be anything but of short duration. This temple is not so easy of access as you seemed to imagine last night when you pilfered my keys. There are many doors and passages, but there is only one way out, and that is through the main gate. In your hurry last night you overlooked the most important key of all, the key of the main gate. I do not wear it on my person, for it is somewhat large and heavy. But I will show you." He pulled out one of the drawers of his desk and

MOTORING NOTES

Return Of The "Four"

Welcome Come-back.

MANY NEW "FOURS" IN 1934 MODELS

For several years there have been signs of a revival of interest in the four-cylinder car, and in the new models for 1934 the move in this direction has been markedly accelerated. This is distinctly good, for the four-cylinder engine is a thoroughly well tried old friend which, if it presents difficulties to the designer, possesses attractions that more than outweigh them.

Its Virtues.

It is inexpensive to operate, it appeals to the novice through its comparative simplicity, and its old tendency to develop periodic vibration has been reduced to vanishing point by ingenious systems of flexible mounting. It has always been true to say that a really good "four" is better than a mediocre "six," and the come-back of the former is welcome.

Helping On The "Six"

Nobody wants to see—nor will he see—the decline and fall of the six-cylinder. It is far too pleasant an engine to be in any danger of eclipse by its four-cylinder rival, but the small "six" is not perfect, especially in the matter of fuel economy. The fact that the four-cylinder power unit has now again to be taken seriously into account cannot but spur on the "small six" enthusiasts to further efforts in this direction. It is satisfactory that our most important manufacturers have both "four" and "sixes" in their programmes, so that neither can be neglected by the designing staffs.

NOVEL ATTRACTION AT MOTOR SHOW

An innovation that proved attractive at this year's Motor Show at Olympia was a "how it works" section, with exhibits in motion, which previously have not been permitted. Here the mysteries of the new forms of transmission, such as synchromesh and self-changing gear-boxes, were unveiled for the unmechanically minded, and an effort made with a 6ft. model to explain what happens inside a "fluid flywheel."

NOW ON DISPLAY

It is an entirely new motoring experience to have the thrill of driving a Dodge Six. It is so alert, so responsive to your least desire, so attractive to the eye, so powerful, and so economical to own and operate that it is the sensational motor car of the year.

THE TIGER OF TIBET

from the back produced a massive most beautifully chased and ornamental, which was in perfect keeping with the appearance of the great lock of the temple gate.

"There are only two of these keys. I keep one, and my friend Max (whom you probably saw in here yesterday evening, as you must have been in hiding under my bed), looks after the other. Of course you may not have been in the room
when he was here. I do not pretend to know, but my conjecture is that you were hiding under the bed;
you see, you were in such a hurry to shove me there that it seemed to me that the idea could not have entered your head at the moment.
Although I admit that at times your brain appears to work with very commendable celerity.

"He is a great man is Max. A genius in his own line, namely the infliction of inconvenience, and even pain, on human bodies without causing any hurriedly fatal injury. I believe he has the record in Tibet for keeping a man alive longer than any other artist of the same creed. But to-morrow you will be in a position to judge for yourself, and doubtless you will be able to give him a perfectly unso-lited testimonial in, say, a fort-night's time."

It was cold in the room in spite of the fire which was now blazing with a roar, but notwithstanding this Geoffrey felt himself bathed in sweat. He tried to shut his ears to Thompson's evil chatter, but was fascinated to listen in spite of himself, and the thought that the morrow would see the beginning of his torture filled him with unalloyed terror. There was no denying the fact. He was horribly frightened.

Thompson saw the effect of his words and went on. "Oh, by the way, I believe I ought to congratulate you. I gathered from your endeavour last night that you had consoled yourself for your recent disappointment by transferring your young affections to the daughter of the old missionary.
Quite a romance I declare. Personally I do not think much of your second selection, although I admit that I have found her quite nice at a dance; but then I prefer fair women to dark. Now, old Max, on the other hand, is quite of your way of thinking. In fact, as perhaps you heard, he even contemplates marrying her himself. But he is not really a lady's man, and I have never known him to keep a wife for more than ten days. He gets tired of them very soon, and then amuses himself by experimenting on them with new methods of what you would probably call torture. Funny chap Max; but there is no accounting for tastes."

There was a double knock on the private door at the head of the bed.
"Hullo, here he is himself, I declare. I wonder what he wants." The words were hardly out of

Thompson's mouth when the door
was slid open and the gigantic body of the Tibetan deputy lurched into the room.

Max was panting so that he could not speak for several minutes. He had been running fast and was obviously under the stress of great excitement.

"My messenger!" The words
were jerked out in sobbing gasps.
"My messenger to Bulbul. He is dead. Killed! They have found his body! I have seen it! All the rubies are gone! Stolen! We have been robbed of lakhs!

"What?"
Thompson leapt to his feet with a shout.

"Are you sure?"
"Of course I am," Bulbul was rapidly regaining his breath.
"Have I not searched the body myself? Of course I am sure. I tell you there is someone at work against us up here. That is the third man gone to-day."

Geoffrey was an excited listener.
The third man to-day! Surely there could be but one explanation,
although he hardly dared hope.
Sher Khan must have got on the warpath and was beginning to make himself felt.

"Oh, the other two were nothing.
Just ordinary lama scum," said Thompson. "The men in the temple were rather excited about it, so I spent the day directing the hunt outside myself, as you know. It pleased them, but we never found anything. I never thought we would. My own idea was that they got a bit drunk and started a quarrel with some passing pilgrims or monks. You know the same thing has occurred before, though I admit that two in one day was an exceptional matter. But your messenger is a very different matter.
You sent a Tibetan?"

PEARLS, CULTURED AND NATURAL.

Exhibition At Messrs.
Komor And Komor's

The exhibition of natural and cultured pearls at Messrs. Komor and Komor's will be closed on Tuesday next at 6 p.m., as Mr. Kodaka is leaving Hong Kong the next day,
to fill his other engagements.

Mr. Kodaka has never before shown a collection of pearls and

pearl jewellery of the magnitude of the present one.

About 30 years ago Japan started to cultivate pearls by placing foreign matter in the oyster shells, and when the first shipment was marketed the experts of the whole world

were puzzled whether to classify

them as genuine or artificial; it was impossible to tell which they were

unless they were cut in two.

It takes about eight years for the cultured pearl to become ready for the market.

GERMAN SOLDIER'S DEATH.

Austrian Government Apologises.

Vienna, Yesterday.
In regard to the Austro-Bavarian frontier incident at Klobenstein, on August 13, a Mixed Boundary Commission has found that a German soldier was shot on German soil by an Austrian frontier guard.
Apologies to the Government have been conveyed to the German Minister and the guilty are to be punished.—Reuter.

The Austrian version of the Reithmink incident, which took place on November 24, was that a handful of border police were surrounded by 200 Nazi "Storm Troops" and fired in self-defence.

The Nazis are stated to have retreated leaving their dead comrade, Schumacher, in the hands of the Austrians.

FREE STATE MAY LEAVE THE EMPIRE

"It will be accompanied, I sincerely trust, by a period of peace, progress and prosperity," he added.

"I will carry on encouraged and strengthened by this signal victory over the disruptive elements raised against our Imperial strength."

The successful Flann Fall candidate was Mr. Eamon De Valera, President of the Executive Council of the Irish Free State, who was elected in South Down, one of the border counties.

He did not visit his constituency during the election campaign, mainly on account of the exclusion ban enforced by some Northern Ireland districts.—British Wireless Service.

JAPANESE WANT LOCHEN.

Base Inside The Great Wall.

SHANHAIKUAN DELEGATE REFUSES.

Peking, Yesterday.

A message from Tientsin states that a hitch has arisen over the proposed retrocession of Shanhaikuan.

The report quotes General Yu Hsueh-chung as stating that the Japanese have suddenly demanded that Lochen be included in the territory of Manchukuo.

Lochen being inside the Great Wall, the Chinese delegate at Shanhaikuan refused to entertain the demand, and has returned to Tientsin.

It appears that the Japanese want Lochen as a base to which to remove the Japanese troops and the Manchukuo organisations now in Shanhaikuan instead of taking them outside the Great Wall.—Reuter's Pacific Service.

tion is only one of the many sensations created at the Reichstag fire trial, which opened at Leipzig on September 21. Five men are charged with the offence, including a Dutch youth, Van der Lubbe, who on November 22, confessed to having set fire to the Reichstag.

Litvinoff Welcomed By Italy

Will Dine With Mussolini.

Rome, Earlier.

The Soviet Commissioner of Foreign Affairs, M. Maxim Litvinoff, who is not expected to arrive here until late to-day, owing to the liner, "Conte De Savoia," being delayed by bad weather, will be received by His Majesty King Victor Emmanuel on Monday.

M. Litvinoff will later give an official dinner to Signor Mussolini at the Russian Embassy, and will attend a reception at the Turkish Embassy.

It is believed that apart from the courtesy side, Signor Mussolini has two main objects in inviting M. Litvinoff to Italy.

Firstly to remind M. Litvinoff that Italy was the first Power to recognise the Soviet, with whom relations have proceeded more smoothly than between the Soviet and the other Powers, hence Italy should be specially considered in the appointment of commercial favours.

Secondly, to draw Russia into the Disarmament talks.—Reuter.

U.S. BARGAINING WITH LIQUOR

Applications have been filed to bring in 12,000,000 gallons. Diplomats have visited the State Department to learn the quota.

It is stated that international considerations will not influence the quota system, but it is suggested that the countries entering into trade pacts would receive three times as much business, as those nations with whom pacts are not negotiated.—Reuter.
